"The Glrl From Rector's."

If we have reached a state of moral turpitude, in which our minds are befogged concerning the character of n place of assignation like "French Charlie's road house" where men and women get drunk together and pair off to their rooms, as depicted in "The Girl from Rector's", then it must be admitted there is a question as to the fitness of the piece for preentation on the stage. "The Girl From Rector's" has a strong caste and good costumes, and nothing else but an evil reputation with which to attract business. It attracted a fair sized audience in Paducah, containing about a score of women; but mostly made up of noatheater-goers. The house showed that the expose, which warned regular patrons away also effectively advertised the piece in other quarters. So the owners of making other lives bright.

Liquidation was more noticeable than at any time in several weeks, fancy Issues which have lately occu pled attention. The decline was further assisted by the fact that many stocks are now so high that investor are prone to exchange them for se curities bearing better rates of Interas it is generally conceded that 1910 will he a period of higher rates than in 1909, it follows that security values must readjust themselves to the higher rates of interest. Investors have not shown any overeager appetite for the new issues which are consequently not heing pressed for sale, and are in some cases held back for more favorable coaditions. A good many banklag houses have been sellers of high priced stocks in order to finance these new issues, and this has been an additional element of weakness in the stock market.

Foreign Exchange, The manipulation of foreign ex-
